In a world where's nothing is perfect, we can dream. Here are some ideas and thoughts to set you on your way.

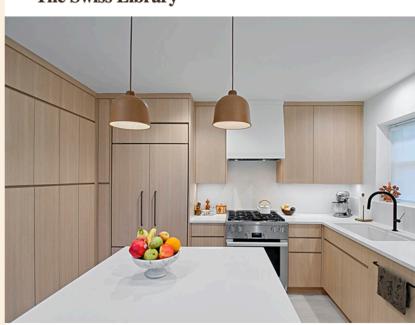

Cleveland Area Traditional With a Fresh Twist

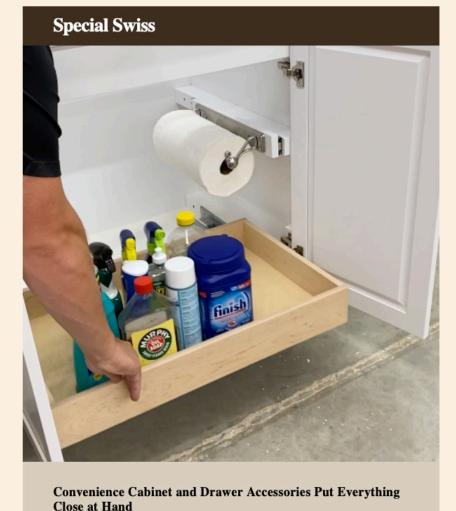

In the Cleveland Suburbs, we had a chance to really show our stuff. This traditional $% \left(1\right) =\left(1\right) +\left(1\right$ $home, built by \ Artisan \ Home builders, updated \ traditional \ design \ with \ a \ number \ of$ contemporary touches bordering on the whimsical. Sliding barn doors, barrel-vaulted $\,$ hallways and intriguing wainscot designs all played a role in creating eye-catching spaces. Swiss Woodcraft brought a level of supreme craftsmanship to the design using precision CNC routers and old-world carpentry skills. We hope you enjoy these photos. SEE PHOTOS.

The Problem With Rift White Oak It's straight grain is increasingly popular in contemporary designs, but also hard to find and expensive. Turns out the reasons for its scarcity has a lot to do with America's $\,$ whiskey obsession. An article on the Swiss Woodcraft website takes a deep look at Rift White Oak and replacement options. READ MORE.

We just sent a trailer load of cabinets to a new home site in Naples, Florida. Before shipping we made some quick videos of the high convenience accessories we built into drawers and cabinets in bathrooms, kitchens, bedrooms and more. They really make life easier and more convenient. Take a look for yourself. SEE THEM HERE.

Swiss Decorates The Great Outdoors For some reason, we've really had a lot of work for outdoor spaces this past year. A huge space in Cleveland's eastern suburbs uses our window boxes and outdoor pillars $made\ from\ Boral \ \ TruExterior \ \ \ inorganic\ material.\ \ We'll\ have\ photos\ soon.\ \ But,\ we've$ also had an inordinate amount of interest in outdoor pillars, siding, beams and more made from Western Cedar.
